

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN OIL BIDS

Decides That Price is Too High and City Refuses to Let Any Contracts.

WILL CONTINUE TO "EAT DUST"

Merchants do Not Get $300 For the Band Concerts as Petition is Voted Down.

The people of Rushville will "eat dust" this summer as far as the city council is concerned. All the bids for oil were rejected by the council at the regular meeting last night and the city will have plenty of dust regardless of the "famous" Howard E. Barrett law passed by the last legislature.

The council decided that all the bids were too high and on motion of Councilman Kelley the bids were rejected. Councilman Kelley stated that he had talked to a number of people and he believed that the people of the city would not stand for the price of oiling given in the bids. The bids were carried over from the special meeting of May 26.

Because the city will not oil the streets however, will not mean that there will be no oiling. The council passed an order which gives anyone desiring to oil by private contract the right to do so providing a permit is obtained from the city clerk. Where there are two or more blocks the city will pay for the street crossings.

The petition of the Retail Merchants Association asking that the council appropriate $300 for the band concerts this summer was killed outright. Councilman Kelley moved that the petition be laid on the table. Under a law of 1909 the council is given the right to appropriate money for band concerts. The maximum amount that can be appropriated is $1,200, but the merchants only needed $300 to help pay the expense. The petition was not discussed and no mention was made except the motion to table it. The council offered no reason for not appropriating the money.

A number of property owners living near the city park petitioned the council to construct a cement walk through the park connecting Tenth street. Councilman Orme moved the petition be granted, but failed to get a second to his motion. Councilman Kelley stated that if ever walks were placed in the park they should be laid out in some kind of order and not cut the park in two as the walk would do if placed from the Tenth street entrance. Councilman Parsons moved that the petition be referred to the park committee for investigation, which was carried.

A petition from West Tenth street property owners asking that the plans and specifications for the cement walks being constructed there be modified so that twelve inches of cinders instead of gravel could be used. All the property owners but four signed the petition and it was granted. The property owners that did not sign the petition will be given the gravel in their walks.

The council approved the contract with Wicker and Vance for the sidewalk improvement in Julian street and ordered the mayor and clerk to sign it. The city treasurer's report for the month of May was read and ordered referred to the finance committee.

Councilman Orme brought to the attention of the council the condition of several sections of sidewalk in Market and Spencer streets. According to Mr. Orme the walk is lower than the grade and when it rains the walk is under from four to

TO BE NO CONVENTION HERE

Psi Iota Xis Give up Annual Meeting For Rushville.

Because of unexpected difficulties which have arisen here the annual national convention of the Psi Iota Xi sorority will not be held here this year. The meeting was to have convened in Rushville the last week in June. The Kokomo chapter has willingly taken the convention and it will be held there on the same date. The announcement was made in Newcastle yesterday by the grand president, Miss Margaret Gillies. The convention was held in Newcastle last year when Rushville was selected for the 1913 meeting.

SIMON BENNETT KILLED INSTANTLY

Well Known Farmer of Near Lewis-ville Struck by Lightning While at Work in Field.

WITNESSED BY ONE PERSON

Simon Bennett, a well known farmer, living near Lewisville, was struck by lightning and instantly killed yesterday afternoon while at work in a field near his home. Mr. Bennett was thirty-eight years old and is survived by his widow. At the time the lightning struck, he was plowing in a field and death was instantaneous. The tragedy occurred shortly after four o'clock during the storm that swept over the northern part of the county.

At the time of death Mr. Bennett was in the center of the field and was making an effort to reach shelter. An unknown man walking along the railroad was the only witness and notified Mr. Bennett's people. Besides the widow he is survived by four sisters and two brothers.

ARE REMINDED OF GETTYSBURG TRIP

Civil War Veterans Hear From Commission Appointed to Arrange For Outing on Battlefield.

LETTER SENT TO G. A. R. POSTS

In its effort to find all veterans of the civil war who are eligible to receive free transportation to the Gettysburg battlefield, where the fiftieth anniversary of the famous engagement is to be celebrated, the Gettysburg commission, of which W. N. Pickerell is secretary, has sent out notice to all G. A. R. posts, the two Soldiers' Homes and to newspapers. The notice reads as follows: "Comrades—Veterans wishing to go to Gettysburg from Indianapolis should at once notify this office (Room 25, State House), to the end that transportation may be reserved on the train leaving Indianapolis June 28. Bring a card from a G. A. R. post, discharge or pension certificate to identify you. This does not apply to those who are furnished state transportation. This must be here by June 10. The commission does not undertake to identify veterans after they arrive at Gettysburg. Those not going via this city should have certificates to enable them to be taken care of in the camp."

WILL BE PITCH IN ALL AROUND

Women Will Pitch in Supper and Men Will Pitch in and Work at Rushville Lawn Party.

AT CITY PARK WEDNESDAY

Idea is Conceived to Improve Tract and Arouse a Community Interest in It.

Rushville is going to have a big lawn party next Wednesday afternoon and evening. It will take place in the city park. The idea arose in the Social Service and Civic Improvement Association of Rushville. The event will be a pitch-in. The women will pitch in the supper and the men are to pitch in and work. They are to bring their scythes, hand sickles, lawn mowers, rakes and any other instrument that has been conceived to cut grass. The gathering will be two-fold: to arouse some interest in the movement to improve the city park and to take some practical steps in that direction by mowing the grass on a section of the park and cleaning up the debris that has been strewn about.

The fact is emphasized that every one in Rushville is invited. It will be a good old-fashioned gathering, where there will be lots of good things to eat and plenty of work to do. The women, many of whom have already been enlisted and who are thoroughly imbued with the idea, will furnish their own dishes and the food for the pitch-in supper. Coffee, the good, sizzling hot kind, will be furnished free by the association.

The idea to do something to arouse a community interest in the city park was suggested by the recent action of the city council in ordering the city street commissioner to have the stone pile removed from the southwest corner of the park and the branch bed cleaned. It has been learned that the improvement will be made by next Wednesday.

The Rush County Chautauqua association, which built the coliseum in the city park, has entered into the spirit of the thing and will use all the influence within its power to make the affair a success so that it can be duplicated in the near future.

The idea was suggested to the Social Service and Civic Improvement association and the executive committee acted favorably on it at once. The committee believes that this start may lead to the accomplishment of many things. Once the people of Rushville really get interested in the beautiful tract of land that was donated to the city for park purposes, it is believed that the results that will be obtained will be marvelous.

The aid of the Boy Scouts will be solicited. It is pointed out that the boys could do a wonderful good. There are many boulders in the city park that could be collected and piled and vines could be grown over them.

There is an almost unlimited field for improvement once an interest in the city park is aroused. It is suggested that later in the summer some means might be conceived to raise a small sum of money to begin equipping the park. It has been the desire of the association to place some playground apparatus in the park.

Flower beds, walks, drives, tennis courts, benches and many other improvements could be made in the city park. Once Rushville people begin to realize that they have a very fine opportunity to make for the city a park, at a very small cost, that would be the equal of any in eastern Indiana, it is thought that some small donations might be made by wealthy men to carry the work along.

SET A DATE TO RECEIVE BIDS

Commissioners Fix Monday June 30, as Time For Letting Bridge and Road Contracts.

BRICK STREET TO BE FIXED

Grant Anti-Tuberculosis Society Privileges to Build Model Cottage on Court House Lawn.

The county commissioners spent this afternoon making a trip to Posey township to inspect the William H. Alsmen road which is about completed. The board will probably not be in session again for several days. The board this morning advertised for bids on bridges damaged and washed out by the flood.

This morning the commissioners granted the petition of the Rush County Society for the Prevention and Study of Tuberculosis for the privilege of erecting a Burr model cottage for tuberculosis patients on the court house lawn. The cottage will likely be erected at once.

The purpose of the plan is to show how easily a tuberculosis patient can build a cottage. The structure is very cheap and can be easily built. In addition to this it is portable. The cottage is built on the plan approved by the State board of health. The same thing is being done in other county seats where there are organizations similar to the one here.

The cottage will be left on the court house lawn for a few weeks so that every one in the county will have an opportunity to see it and inspect the method of building. In addition the cottage will be used to house charts, maps, statistics and other things relating to the white plague so that people may get some information on the disease which is causing so many fatalities.

The board will receive bids for the erection of eight new bridges which were washed out by the flood, the repair of five bridges which were damaged by the flood, the repair of the retaining wall and the brick street south of Rushville between the river bridge and Jersey City and for two new roads on Monday June, 30.

The new bridges on which bids will be received are: the Sabert Offutt bridge in Posey township; Henry Leisure in Jackson; Claude Miller, Orange; J. M. Farlow, Anderson; Alba Hurst, Walker; William Jeffers, Ripley; Maria Kiplinger, Jackson and the Thornberry Ford in Rushville township.

The bids on bridge repairs are: Manche, Ripley; Henry Davis, Anderson; Lon Keisling, Richland; Arlington, Posey; Poston, Noble. Contracts will also be awarded for the Cook road in Union township and the Miller road in Walker township.

SCHOOL CONTRACT IS LET

$7,000 Building Will be Erected Near Lewisville.

The contract for a school building to be built near Lewisville by the trustee of Franklin township, Henry county, was let yesterday to Howard C. Elliott of Newcastle. He will pay $200 for the old building. A contract for another school house in the same township will be awarded in a few weeks. The Lewisville National bank bid in the $33,000 bond issue of the township to build the school at their face value. There was only one other bidder.

DAMAGE SUIT SENT HERE

Woman Demands $5000 From Merry-go-Round Owner.

The $5,000 damage suit of Theresa Thompson against Philip S. McLaughlin has been received here on a change of venue from Hancock county. The complaint states that the defendant operated a merry-go-round in the streets of Greenfield in August, 1912, and that Mrs. Thompson was thrown to the ground while attempting to place her two little nieces on the machine. Her injuries consisted of a broken arm and numerous bruises. She alleges carelessness on the part of the defendant and demands $5000 for her injuries.

MYERS BOY BEFORE JUVENILE COURT

Is Found Guilty of Petit Larceny and Receives Suspended Sentence From Judge Megee.

JAS. MILLER IS IN CHARGE

The petit larceny case against George Myers, for stealing hides from Harry Kramer was heard this afternoon in juvenile court by Judge Megee. After hearing the report of probation officer, James Miller, the court decided that a boy was worthy of a chance and placed him under suspended sentence. He was made a ward of the court and given to the care of Mr. Miller. This is the first trouble the boy has been in and for this reason the court was lenient. The case against Delbert Newman, who was implicated on the same charge as the Myers boy will have his trial later. The Newman boy is seventeen years old and his case will come up in the circuit court. He stands a chance of going to Jeffersonville. The Myers boy is fifteen years old.

FILE LIEN ON NEW CHURCH

Contractors Demand $375 From the Presbyterian Congregation.

James Armstrong and Jacob Rouston have brought suit against Claud Gourley, Herbert Hill, Vere C. Chapell and George Horn, trustees of the Bethel Presbyterian church at Knightstown and against the church to foreclose a mechanic's lien, says the Newcastle Courier. The plaintiffs allege that they did some work on the new church and that they have made demand for their money, but have not received it. They ask that the property be sold so that they can get their money. The amount involved is $375. The church was recently dedicated and at the time of the dedicatory services it was said that the church was free from debt.

FRED RICHTER FINED.

Fred Richter was fined one dollar and costs this morning for assault and battery in Squire Kratzer's court. The fine and costs amounting to $10.75 was paid. The affidavit was filed by his wife, May Richter. Richter and a married woman from Cincinnati had a battle at the Richter home and when Mrs. Richter took a hand in the affair he is alleged to have struck her.

RELATIVES DIE.

Mrs. L. B. Osborn received a telegram yesterday stating that her cousin, Charles Gruell of San Diego, California, had died. He was the only son of Calvin and Melissa Gruell. The interment will take place in California.

PLAINTIFF TO REST TONIGHT

Carleton Chaney Expects to Conclude His Case Against Drs.
Elliott and Paxton.

DAMAGE SUIT AT SHELBYVILLE

Doctor Who Prescribes Braces For Boy to Use in Witness For Plaintiff.

The defense will likely begin the introduction of evidence in the five thousand dollar damage suit of Carleton Chaney of near Glenwood against Dr. J. T. Paxton and H. H. Elliott in Shelbyville in the morning. Mr. Chaney is asking the sum because of the loss of his son's services. The plaintiff expects to close this evening.

The first testimony was introduced yesterday morning. Dr. Walter C. McFadden of Shelbyville was an expert witness for the plaintiff, the first one called.

According to Shelbyville newspapers, several depositions and examinations taken in connection with the case had been placed before the court Monday afternoon and yesterday morning. Examinations of the defendant physicians taken by the plaintiff some time ago were read to the court and jury by Judge Will M. Sparks, who is one of the attorneys for the plaintiff. Depositions of R. W. Magee and Dr. Robert Wemper, of Indianapolis, were also read to the court and jury, these four being finished Monday evening.

Depositions of Dr. John Oliver and Albert M. Cole were read Tuesday. Drs. Kemper and Oliver had examined the boy and prescribed the kind of braces he should wear on account of his condition and Mr. Cole had taken some X-ray photographs of the injured hip. Mr. Magee sold the braces for the use of the boy. All of them are residents of Indianapolis.

In making the opening for the plaintiff before the jury, Will M. Sparks read parts of the complaint. It is alleged by the plaintiff that the defendants in setting the broken bone in the boy's leg did the work in an unskillful, negligent, and careless manner such as to leave the lad permanently crippled, and unable to

The Conservation of Energy

Shopping to some women and to some men, too, means work—real hard drudgery.

W hinktinked brow and determined look they go about their shopping with no more liking for it than a small boy who goes to have his hair cut.

Do you wonder that the results under these conditions are costly and unsatisfactory, to say nothing of the distressing mental strain occasioned by such unscientific methods?

Shopping, drudgery is so needless, so unnecessary. It is your fault if we go at it blindly and worry ourselves to distraction when, by the simple method of reading intelligent, helpful advertising in good newspapers like THE DAILY REPUBLICAN we may shorten our steps, settle perplexing questions, and incidentally, if we read carefully, keep many a dollar within our purses that might otherwise go astray.

Mrs. Housewife—"Here I've boiled and rubbed this lace and the coffee stains are in it yet. I'm simply afraid to do a thing more to it. It looks weak already. I guess it's a goner."

Anty Drudge—"Not if you will take my advice. Take that boiler off the range, fill it with cool water, rub the lace with Fels-Naptha Soap and soak it a short time. Then rub it lightly and rinse it. The stains will be all gone and the lace'll look as good as new."

"Boil until tender" is what all the cook books say.

Boiling makes most anything tender, even hard wood.

And that's precisely what boiling does to your clothes.

Fels-Naptha Soap dissolves and loosens dirt in cool or lukewarm water, without hard rubbing.

It's the easy way of washing; makes the clothes cleaner, whiter and purer, and they wear twice as long.

Be sure to get the genuine Fels-Naptha and follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

Farms Worth the Money Are What We Offer Buyers

Whether it be in Western Ohio, in Northeastern Indiana, in Southern Ontario or in Southern Minnesota, a Straus Farm is worth its price and more.

Straus Farms are Quality Farms

They are the really choice ones in the most productive and most promising sections of America.

We own every farm we sell; and not one is bought until thorough examination has shown that it measures up to the Straus Standard of Quality.

In Western Ohio, the land of corn, we own more than 100 rich, black, level farms—in productiveness the equal of the best $250 land in central Illinois—that we can sell at extremely low prices. Any size you want from 40 acres up to 536 acres. Here, for example, are two of them.

No. 3087—536 Acres in Madison County, Ohio

Situated about 25 miles S. W. of Columbus and 20 miles from Springfield; on gravel road, close to good town. Farm lies nearly level, soil mostly black loam of high quality, tiled, all in cultivation but 35 acres blue grass pasture watered by creek. Good buildings and other improvements; 2 tenant houses. A splendid big farm. Price, $160 an acre.

No. 3034—40 Acres in Paulding County, Ohio

Lies 2 miles from railroad town of 500 people. This is a level, black loam farm with clay subsoil, well tiled and all in fine state of cultivation. Good 2 story 8-room dwelling, good small barn and outbuildings; wind pumps. On stone pike, in excellent neighborhood, close to school and church. Price, $165 an acre.

Or perhaps you would be better suited in Northeastern Indiana, a region where corn shares first place with wheat and where the raising of blooded stock is an important branch of farming. Here we own dozens of farms of deep loam soil, level to gently rolling, well improved, all on gravel roads and close to good markets. How would either of these suit you?

No. 3180—80 Acres in Noble County, Indiana

Situated 4 miles west of Rome City, a noted summer resort on Sylvan Lake; on gravel road and only 1/4 mile from school. This is a level dark loam farm, nicely improved, about 60 acres in cultivation and about 20 acres in timber and blue grass pasture. Has good roomy set of buildings, including 1 1/2 story 9-room dwelling, barn 40x50 and complete set of outbuildings; wind pump; splendid apple and peach orchard. One of the best farms in the county. Price, $137.50 an acre.

No. 3197—118 Acres in La Grange County, Indiana

Three and one-half miles northeast of Topeka, the best market in the county; on gravel road, 1/4 mile from school and church. Farm is nearly level, soil is dark rich loam, all in cultivation but about 8 acres in timber. Fine 10-room brick dwelling, good bank barn 40x70, large new silo, summer house, double crib and wagon shed and other outbuildings. A splendid grain and dairy farm in the richest part of northeastern Indiana. Price, $150 an acre.

Nearly 300 others are fully described in the Straus Red Book, which will be ready soon. If you have not already told us to reserve a Red Book for you, do it now. We'll gladly send it free.

Constantinople, June 4.—Major John P. Finley, U. S. A., who came here from the Philippines to see if the sultan and the Sheikh Ul Islam, spiritual head of the church, could not prevail upon their Mohammedan brethren there to cease their constant uprisings and settle down, has been highly honored by the sultan. He was decorated with the Order of Medjidieh in recognition of his services to the Mohammedans in the Philippines. The sultan also bestowed upon Major Finley an imperial tiara with an imperial toghra, recognizing him as a religious minister plenipotentiary of the Moros. Such a document is very rarely given and the government only yielded to the wishes of the sultan in the matter after repeated refusals.

The sultan also sent to the American embassy for Major Finley a number of framed inscriptions and other decorations for the mosque at Taluk-Sangay, the chief Moslem building in the Philippines.

Britons May Raise a Row

London, June 4.—The house of commons may take up the question as to the right of Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, to use public funds for private entertainment aboard the admiralty yacht. Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, his mother, and other ladies were among the party on the yacht on the trip of Mr. Churchill and Premier Asquith to the Mediterranean.

Death of "Dory" Biddle.

Anderson, Ind., June 4.—Theodore (Dory) Biddle, aged sixty-two, former publisher of the Anderson Bulletin, is dead of apoplexy at his farm home. He had always lived in Madison county.

Investigation of the armor plate situation has been authorized by a resolution adopted in the senate.

ARE UNIONISTS BEING ARMED?

Discovery at Belfast Creates Immense Stir.

RIFLES AND BAYONETS SEIZED

Mysterious Shipment Created the Suspicious of Customs Officers Whose Investigation Revealed Large Quantity of Modern Arms Which the Unionists Openly Boast Is but a Small Part of Their Present Store.

Belfast, June 4.—Becoming suspicious of twelve large cases which arrived from Manchester vaguely addressed and described as "electrical equipment," the local customs officials opened the cases and found them full of rifles and bayonets.

Technically the arms cannot be seized, as arms may be legitimately consigned to anybody in Ireland, but they will be held until the designs of the consignees can be ascertained.

The discovery of the arms and the seizure created an immense stir when it became known. Crowds flocked to the York dock, where the cases are held, to watch for developments, but nothing happened.

It is said that the cases contain about 2,000 rifles of modern foreign pattern. The address did not name any consignee. It was merely addressed "to order." It is claimed that the rifles were brought on the small steamer Helen, which was chartered at Belfast.

The general belief is that the Orange campaign against home rule is responsible for the arrival of the arms. The Unionist leaders decline to talk, but the rank and file declare that the consignment is undoubtedly a part of the equipment of the Loyalists, adding triumphantly that they could afford to lose a few hundred arms, as enormous consignments have already arrived here and the weapons are in the hands of those who will not hesitate to use them if the government tries to condemn them to the tyranny of the Roman Catholic Nationalists.

The home rule people, on the other hand, declare that the whole affair is a piece of theatricalism, either a practical joke or a political advertisement. The detention of the arms is ascribed to Dublin castle. It is not expected anybody will claim the cases now being held by the police.

BODY PICKED UP IN RIVER

Missing Student Apparently Had Taken His Own Life.

New York, June 4.—The body of Benjamin Chapman Gibson, the Columbia university student, who disappeared on May 24, was picked up last night in the East river off the foot of 32nd street.

Gibson had been worrying lest he had not passed the examinations in the teachers' college, where he had taken a course in pedagogy. It is believed his mind became unbalanced and he drowned himself. A pathetic feature of the tragedy is that he did pass the examinations with honor.

Mrs. Gibson, whom he left a week ago last Saturday night, saying he intended to walk "over to the East river," returned last week in care of a physician to the home of her parents in Owensboro, Ky. Gibson was forty-two years old.

HE "INCITED HOSTILITY"

This Is the Charge on Which a Jury Convicts Passaic Editor.

Paterson, N. J., June 4.—Alexander Scott, editor of the Weekly Issue, a Socialist paper published in Passaic, was convicted by a jury in the county court here of "inciting hostility to the government." The indictment was based on articles and editorials in which the Paterson police were held up to scorn and ridicule. The maximum penalty under the conviction is fifteen years' imprisonment.

Eagle Had Been Stealing Lambs.

Mooreville, Ind., June 4.—Henry C. Carter, a farmer living three miles east of here, had been missing his young lambs and chickens for some time. Yesterday he killed the thief. It was an eagle that measured over seven feet from tip to tip of wings.

Washington, June 4.—Mrs. Edward B. McLean, mother of Vinson McLean, "the $100,000,000 baby," is said to be threatened with appendicitis.

There's Always Another Knox Dessert—try this one

Knox Angel Parfait

1 teaspoonful Knox Gelatine. 2 table-spoonfuls cold water. Whites of two eggs, beaten dry. ½ cup candied fruit cut fine. 1½ cup heavy cream, beaten light. ½ cup granulated sugar. 3 table-spoonfuls wine or thick syrup. ½ cup water.

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes or more. Boil sugar and ½ cup water to soft ball degree (as in making boiled frosting) pour gradually over whites of eggs while beating constantly; add gelatine, stir over cold or ice water till mixture is cold and begins to set; fold in cream, fruit and flavoring. Fruit will be softer if soaked in wine or syrup some hours. Turn into quart mold, paper lined, cover tight and let stand in equal parts ice and salt about 3 hours.

It's never the same old thing over and over again when you depend on Knox Gelatine for your desserts. You can have the most delicious puddings, ices, ice creams, jellies, etc.—in as great a variety as there is of fruits, berries and nuts.

Two Packages—Plain and Acidulated.

Both Making Two Quarts (½ gallon) of Jelly.

With the Plain Sparkling, lemons are used for flavoring; but with the Acidulated package comes an envelope of concentrated lemon juice—a great convenience when too busy to squeeze lemons. Both contain a tablet for coloring.

Let us send you the Knox Recipe Book and enough Gelatine to make one pint —enough to try most any one of our desserts, puddings, salads, jellies, ice creams, sherbets, candies, etc.

Had To "Renig."

Is the Democratic national administration going to "renig." Indications are that it is going to take back some things it said about the mean trusts and protectionists. If the Senate finance subcommittee's report carries any weight in the upper legislative body, meats and flour will not be put on the free list in the Underwood tariff bill.

A lot of things conspired to bring about this decision. The insidious lobbyists, as Mr. Wilson termed them, the people who are interested in their own welfare, brought enough pressure to bear on the subcommittee to make it see the light.

A protest by the American Live Stock association evidently had some effect. Among other things it said: "The result of the free admission of meats from other surplus countries would be, first of all, to discourage the live stock business, and if the prices were forced to the level of Argentine beef or Australian mutton the business would be so unprofitable that this country would soon cease to produce its own meat."

Armour, Swift and Morris have large plants in Argentina, the protest asserted, and handle 39 per cent. of the export trade of South America. Two of these firms are building large plants in Uruguay.
Swift & Co. is now building a plant in Brisbane, Queensland. There are now three plants in Canada, operated by the same American packers.

"The proposition that to place meat on the free list would result in curbing the so-called beef trust is preposterous," the petition continued.

"Whatever control American packers have over prices in this country would be increased instead of lessened by free meats."

Protesting against "the unequalled treatment of wheat and flour in the Underwood bill," millers of St. Louis presented a petition to the finance committee. "This," it is said, "is not protection for the produce, but it is a great and serious handicap imposed by the government of the United States against the mills of our own country."

Resolutions by the Chicago Board of Trade urged an amendment of the bill to "provide for a duty of 10 cents a bushel on wheat and rye and an equivalent duty on the products of wheat and rye on all importations."

Buffalo cereal manufacturers are petitioning against free oatmeal and durable oats and stated that the largest manufacturer of rolled oats in the United States has two large mills in Canada.

Should be Studied.

Rushville and other cities have grown much more rapidly than our knowledge of them. While we have been getting rich, while the population has become congested in communities, there has been no one, it seems, to learn anything of what we call a city. We have elected this man or that to serve as mayor, we have chosen boards of directors, or councilmen, and have levied taxes and have spent the money and all with never a person in charge who really understands the city.

All of that must be changed some day in the future. Because a man has made a tremendous success in a private undertaking is no indication that he could not run a city profitably. On the other hand it is no sign that he could. It shows, however, what he might do if he studied his business, but there is so much difference between running a private corporation and running a public corporation that it requires a different kind of knowledge.

Nor does it follow that because a man is a "good fellow" and is popular in the community, that he knows anything about running a municipality. In fact, it is a pretty good sign that if one has been busy becoming popular he hasn't spent a great deal of time in studying the many problems which he will have to deal when he undertakes to run a city government. So it seems the only way we can expect to conduct our municipalities in the future is by the employment of experts—men trained in city problems. At least it seems we shall have to have somebody to study the problems for us, and tell us how we can run our own city.

A Ridiculous Attempt.

The special Senate committee which is investigating the alleged lobby President Wilson says is working diligently to defeat the Underwood tariff bill, but which the committee has as yet been unable to unearth, proposes to challenge the right of six senators to vote on the pending tariff bill. One should be allowed to wonder, we suppose, if those six senators were elected in their respective states to serve their constituents or to act like stag-hands. The plea of the alleged investigators is that the six senators are interested in concerns which the reduced tariff will affect—an admission, in fact, that the proposed tariff will damage some interests. Five of the six senators are Republicans.
They were elected on a protective tariff platform and they would not be doing their duty and serving the ends for which they were elected, if they did not vote against the Underwood bill.

A Cornell professor advises needy students not to attempt to work their way through college, but to borrow the money for the purpose.
If they endeavor to support themselves while studying, he says they both run the risk of breaking down and lose the social advantage of going to college.

The plan involves a departure from the old order of things under which poor students, though sometimes grubstaked by friends or self-sacrificing relatives, worked their way through college and asked only to have the opportunity. But it is applying to a college education the approved methods of corporation financing and would help further to relieve colleges of the reproach that they are not in touch with modern development. Yet debts of this kind are hard to pay and most difficult to collect. And curiously enough, in refutation of the argument for subsidizing under-graduates, Cornell students themselves earned $184,900 last year, without, so far as is known, essentially "impairing the value" of their college course. Moreover, at no previous time have American colleges been so well equipped with funds for the aid of deserving students.

The patience of the amateur gardener is deserving of all praise.
In the face of cartooning and bantering, of the foolish questioning and the sarcasms of the neighbors, he stimulates the poor clay of his backyard into productiveness, bends his back over his plantings, chases dogs, warns off small boys, lays traps for bugs and expresses a contentment with such increases as the earth chooses to give him.

There must be some joy and reward in gardening of itself that can carry the amateur gardener over the hillocks of funmaking and the barriers of irritations, such joy and reward as the angler obtains in lieu of fish. The exercise is obtainable in other ways less straining upon unused muscles and good temper. The work might more profitably be employed upon other affairs. And as for the yield in things good to eat, it very often costs much more than were the money planked down upon the grocer's counter. The returns must consist in watching plant life develop out of the unpromising looking seed, bulb and cutting and in feeling that it is one's exertions and care which have brought about this wonderful germination and growth.

The Balkin allies are fighting among themselves. Their idea of the proper way to celebrate a victory is to commit suicide.

in a current magazine the other day.

The opponents of the prize fight game argue that fifty-seven were

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

REAL HEROISM.

(Muncie Press.)

The general public knows very little about Editor George Newett, who publishes a newspaper at Ishpeming, Mich., with a circulation of two thousand, and who is being sued by the best known man in the world for libel, but if his daughter is a chip off the old block, there is much to admire in the man.

His daughter, Mrs. George Nelson is a heroine. Several years ago she engaged herself to be married to a boy sweetheart, a youth of much promise, who was studying to become a mining engineer. Work in the mines was a part of his course. In an Arizona mine he hit a box of percussion caps with a hammer. The explosion blew off both hands and made him blind forever.

Absolutely helpless, he came back to Michigan. Editor Newett's daughter, reflecting in this her father's friends say, the spirit of her "dad," refused to consider a break in her relations with her maimed and blinded lover. The young man refused, but the girl, backed by her parents when they realized her heart was set upon the sacrifice, insisted, and the marriage took place.

This courageous young woman is now both hands and eyes for her husband. The two are never apart.
Here is bravery of the highest and best order, vastly higher and better than that which is sometimes advertised as heroism.

Society News

The regular social of the ladies of the Catholic church will be held in the church hall this evening.

The Willing Workers class of the St. Paul M. E. Sunday school will meet with Mrs. Charles Baker, at her home at 117 West Ninth street, Thursday afternoon.

About twenty relatives and friends of Lee Wilson, living a short distance east of the city, surprised him Monday evening. The occasion was his sixtieth birthday anniversary.

Mrs. C. L. Newhouse and Mrs. Frank George entertained about fifty guests Monday evening at Mrs. George's home, near New Salem, in honor of Miss Olive Grace Kenner, who is to be married to Harry Armstrong this evening. The guests were entertained with a musical program and other forms of entertainment. The house was very artistically decorated in pink and white, and refreshments were served.

Amusements

The Palace will show a two reel feature "The Favorite Son" for tonight. It is a Kay Bee drama and tells a thrilling war story.

The Princess offers a Biograph drama "The Welcome Intruder" for the first picture tonight. Clara McDowell is featured in this film which is said to be a fine production. The other is a Lubin comedy entitled "Oh! Such an Appetite."

The Portola will again show three reels of pictures, "In the Land of the Cactus" is the title of the first Lubin drama. "Babes in the Woods" is a Pathe drama. The scenes in this film are all hand colored. The last picture is a Biograph comedy, "All Hail the King."

The rube band will be a feature of the home talent play, "The Old School at Hickory Holler," which will be produced at the coliseum Friday evening by two classes of the Main Street Christian Sunday school. Hosea Jimson is a performer of note in the village where the scenes are laid and Peter Blowhard holds the township record for being the best Marathon blower. Jimmie Shortstalk has to wear glasses to read the music, because his eyes are getting a little weak, although he is as good a player as he ever was, and besides, the fellow who copied Jimmie's music off the original had a dull pencil.

SPICELAND FIELD DAY.

Several people from here went to Spiceland today to attend the annual academy field day and reunion. The morning program consisted of tennis contests, a concert by the Knightstown home band and a ball game between the academy team and the alumni. Two concerts, a drill by the girl's drill team and another ball game made up the afternoon program.

LOCAL INTEREST IN CONFERENCE

Banks and Trust Companies Here and Many in County Are Represented at Indianapolis Meeting.

CLOSING SESSION TODAY

Favorable Comments Are Made on T. A. Coleman's Speech at Initian Gathering Yesterday.

Prof. Z. M. Smith of Purdue university today was named the agent to be in charge of agricultural education in Indiana, after the state organization for the new vocational education work held a meeting in Indianapolis in connection with the life conference which is being conducted under the auspices of the Indiana Bankers association. The appointment was approved by Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction.

Rushville and Rush county men who attend the first day's session of the conference yesterday returned hom thoroughly imbued with the new idea in agriculture. Although there were only a few farmers from Rush county, every bank and trust company in Rushville was represented, and there were some officers from the banks in the smaller places in the county.

The Rushville National bank was represented by Wilbur Stiers, cashier and Alvan Moor, a director; the Peoples National bank by Ralph Payne, cashier, and Robert A. Innis, a director; the Peoples Loan and Trust company by E. B. Thomas, secretary; the Farmers Trust company, by its president, A. B. Iryin; the Rush County National bank, by its president, L. Link.

Many of the local men who attended the meeting were impressed with the speech made by T. A. Coleman of this city, until recently the secretary of the State Federated Agricultural association, but who has just been appointed assistant state leader to equip counties with agricultural agents, as provided for in a section of the new vocational law. The Rushville men present say Mr. Coleman's views were commented on very favorably.

With Governor Ralston, former Vice-President C. W. Fairbanks, W. E. Stone, president of Purdue university; Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, president of the Indiana Home Economics Association, and Professor A. B. Graham, of the Ohio State university, were on today's program of the state conference of agriculture and country life. The attendance at the meetings in the convention hall of the Claypool hotel was increased over yesterday.

All parts of the state, and more than twenty state agricultural, home and other organizations, were represented. The greatest interest was shown in the new Indiana vocational education and county agent law, and in the steps to be taken under it for a reorganization of the present ideas and methods of education, especially in the country.

in Box Will Oppose Rushville Aggregation

CAMBRIDGE CITY COMING

The Indianapolis Specials will oppose the Rushville team Sunday. The Specials are coming here with the intentions of beating the locals and if Starkey, the southpaw pitcher of the Specials is in form the game will be a battle. Starkey is generally conceded to be one of the best pitchers in semi-pro ball in Indianapolis with Avery in the box for Rushville a fast game is expected. The locals will use the regular line up and an effort will be made to cop the game. The Specials recently defeated the fast Alexandria team and have won from some of the strongest teams in the state. The game will be called at the usual time, 2:30 o'clock. The Cambridge City Greys of the Eastern Indiana League have been book for a game here June 29. The Cambridge City team is one of the best in the state and will be strong opposition for Rushville.

"CHAUFFEUR" DEFINED.

Attorney-General Honan, in an opinion to L. G. Ellingham, secretary of state holds that under the new automobile license law the word "chauffeur" means only those that drive cars as an employment. This eliminates the necessity for owners of cars and members of their family taking out a chauffeur license.

NEW UNIFORMS ARRIVE.

A full attendance is desired at the meeting of the local company of Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, which will be held at the lodge building Thursday evening at seven-thirty o'clock. The new uniforms have arrived and it is planned to arrange to attend the annual Third Regimental Memorial services at Newcastle Sunday.

GETS HALF OF FEES.

Indianapolis Star: The Appellate Court yesterday decided that county clerks are entitled to receive one-half of the fees they collect for the naturalization of aliens. The decision was made in affirming the Marion Circuit Court which held that Leonard M. Quill was entitled to $1,289.50 as one-half of the fees collected by him in naturalization cases while clerk of Marion county.

The Argyle Case

A Novelization by J. W. McConaughy of the Successful New Play by Harriet Ford, Harvey J. O'Higgins and Detective William J. Burns, in Which Robert Hilliard Is Appearing.

Copyright, 1912, by Journal - American - Examiner.

"Your daughter!" exclaimed Kayton in a new tone. "She's fainting!"

And for the first time in his life Kayton lost control of the situation in a vital crisis. Forgotten was the murder, the counterfeiters, his reputation, his life—everything—as he bent over the pale faced girl.

Mrs. Martin seized Kreisler's arm. "He knows!" she gasped. "He knows she's my daughter!"

Kayton threw back his head and straightened up.

"Do you think I'd have sent her here if you weren't her mother?" he snarled savagely. "You ought to have gone when I told you to. Good God! Haven't you any feeling for her at all? I might have known I couldn't trust her to a woman who left her when she was a baby for a man like Kreisler!"

He had apparently lost all sense of the terrible situation save in so far as the girl's name might be smirched. With a woman's quick intuition Mrs. Martin saw and her face lit with a fierce joy.

"Friedrich!" she cried, in a shrill voice. "We've got him!"

The German's burning, steady eyes had never left the detective's face, but his right hand had made the trip it started before—but this time it had fulfilled its errand. It was concealed in the folds of Mrs. Martin's skirt.

"What do you mean?" he growled.

"He's in love with her!"

Her finger pointed to the scene across the room and Kayton winced as if the hand had thrown a spear at him.

"Whatever you do to me!" cried the woman triumphantly. "you'll do to her! She's my daughter and I'll claim her!" Kayton's eyelids narrowed, and he gritted his teeth.

"You're a rotten pair!" he said slowly.

But the woman was all but hysterical.

"I've got her out of my life until now—and you brought her into it!" she cried. "From now on she'll get what I get!"

"You can't drag her so low that I won't drag her back!" declared Kayton in a tense voice. "She's accused of this murder, and the only way I can clear her is by showing you up."

At the word Kreisler's right hand darted up. Kayton's lip curled, and he tossed his revolver across the floor. He was a brave man, like Kreisler.

"Go ahead!" he exclaimed contemptuously, walking almost up to the muzzle of the revolver that was held in a hand as steady as the cool mind behind it. "Shoot and she'll hang for it!" He pointed to the woman that still clung to Kreisler's left arm. "And my boys will kill you and your gang like rats in a trap! The house is surrounded. There's a dictograph in that window. My men hear every word we say. I have only to speak an order to have it obeyed. The moment you threatened to kill me they started to raid the house."

As if in instant proof of his words, even while the white crease in Kreisler's forehead showed the pressure on the trigger, the buzzer above the doorway burst out its warning.

Slowly the finger relaxed, and the arm came down to his side. His eyes turned to the woman's face with an expression that in its very calmness struck despair and agony to her soul.

"It has come," he said simply.

"Put up your hands!" snapped Kayton. Kreisler glanced at him indifferently and found himself facing the steel circle of the muzzle of a second revolver. Then his eyes came back to the woman. His look at Kayton and the revolver was no more than that we give a stranger on the street.

"Put up your hands!" repeated Kayton warningly.

The German, ignoring him, kissed the woman's dark forehead, gently disengaged his arm and, leaving her standing rigid with eyes closed, turned his back on Kayton and walked slowly to the door. Here he suddenly threw up one hand, not both hands; there was a sharp report—and Friedrich Kreisler had accepted defeat in his warfare with society.

With a low moan the woman threw herself across his lifeless body just as

The Woman Threw Herself Across His Lifeless Body.

Manning, followed by the other members of Kayton's force, burst into the room. Kayton bent over the still insensible girl for an instant. Then he turned to his assistant.

"Joe, call a cab."

CHAPTER XIV. After the Raid.

THERE were columns about it in the morning papers, but no astute reporter saw any connection between the "unearthing of the most gigantic counterfeiting plot in history" and the Argyle murder. None knew that Miss Mazurek had been in the house. Gage, Skidd and Mrs. Martin were incommunicado, the latter too numb and dazed to talk even if she could have been approached. As a special favor to Kayton she was held under his orders to be taken to his office when wanted in the morning.

Kayton appeared as fresh and clean shaved and immaculate as was his wont. He heard the final reports of the night's work from his various aids, dispatched them out for breakfast, ordered the stenographer to hustle with the dictograph notes and sent for Manning. The young man entered, eating his morning apple.

"Hurley's all right, governor," was his greeting. "He's down in his office."

"Nervous?" queried his chief, with a faint smile.

"Oh, gee!" murmured Manning. "He got up all right and had a big breakfast ordered and then saw the paper—and he didn't eat a bite. He piked back to his room and packed his little bag. Then he read the papers again and unpacked it. We went down on the 'L' with him, and he passed his street, and we thought he was going to beat it, but I guess he was so worried he forgot his station. He's waiting in his office now with his ear to the ground."

Kayton smiled. "Let's start a little rumble for him, Joe," he said, picking up the telephone receiver. "Get me Hurley. We've got to find out who this Hurley is, Joe, and get his record."

He ran over some typewritten pages that Leischmann dropped noiselessly at his elbow and grinned.

"Hurley's got us sized up in nine shape," he remarked, glancing down sideways. "According to him, I'm a pinhead."

"He has a great sense of humor, governor," Manning assured him solemnly. "He laughed so hard last night that he nearly split the dictograph."

Kayton laughed and then suddenly frowned for silence.

"Hello, Mr. Hurley," he said cheerfully into the phone. "I think I've obtained a clew on your Argyle case. Drop in and see me this morning, can you? Yes, I'd like to consult you. It's too confidential for the telephone. All right. Thanks."

He hung up the receiver, laughing silently.

"Joe, go to the hotel and get Miss Mazurek," he said quickly. "Don't go to the desk. Go to the telephone girl—she's all right—and send my name up. Get her out without attracting any attention, and bring her right down here."

"All right, governor," said Manning, and he hurriedly slouched out. Kayton sent for Leischmann and gave him some particular instructions in connection with the last page of the dictograph report and the specimen of Mrs. Martin's signature as "Nellie Marsh" that he had in his desk.

"Look here," he said. "I want you to type in above the name—there! you see?—as if it were the final page of her confession—the usual thing before a notary public, and have two of the boys sign right down here and put on a couple of wafers. Make it 'Page 9, N. M. statement.'"

"Yes, sir," said Leischmann and added as he withdrew, "Mr. Colt has come."

"Oh!" Kayton chuckled. "See if he has Mrs. Martin with him. If he has send her in, and tell him I'll see him later."

Unconsciously Kayton drew himself together, and his muscles stiffened as the door of the outer office opened, and Mrs. Martin walked into the sanctum. She had dressed herself with a care that only accentuated the ghastliness of her appearance—the fishy whiteness of her face and the madness of anguish in her dark eyes. Slowly and deliberately as an automaton, she advanced to the desk, her eyes fixed with deadly intensity on Kayton's impassive face.

"God!" she exclaimed at last in a low, passionate voice, in which utter hate and utter despair were strangely blended. "God, I wish I'd let him kill you!"

Kayton met her terrible eyes as calmly as if she had wished him a pleasant good morning.

"What good would that have done?" he asked quickly. "If I hadn't caught him some one else would. You were playing a game that you couldn't win. You knew that. You said so. You told him last night that every prissou in the world was waiting for him."

The woman turned away with a groan and sank weakly into a chair. "He's dead! He's dead!" she moaned.

"There was nothing for him to do but kill himself," said Kayton, as quietly as before. "Why, he killed himself when he went into this thing. The government would never have let him out. He'd have been buried alive."

Mrs. Martin choked and shook her head wildly, as if struggling for breath. "Oh," she cried distractedly, "let me alone—let me alone!"

Kayton gave her a look of pity. "I would if I could, Mrs. Martin," he said gently, with unmistakable sincerity. "I've had to make you a good deal of trouble. I'd like to give you a little help now, if I can."

He paused a moment and studied the worn face before him.

"I can clear you of the charge against you in the counterfeiting case," he went on in the same quiet matter of fact way, "but I want you to tell me everything—all that you know of the Argyle case."

Mrs. Martin drew in her breath with a gasp, leaned forward and gripped the edge of the desk with both hands.

"Why do you say that to me?" she cried excitedly. "Why do you pretend I know anything about that?"

Kayton, too, leaned forward until there was a scant eighteen inches between his calm, cold face and her trembling, twitching mask.

"Because, after Mr. Argyle's fall," he said swiftly, "dragging off the tablecloth, you were leaning forward—just as you are now—holding on to the table with both hands!"

And, reaching over quickly, he tapped her wrists smartly and leaned back.

Like one in the numb horror of nightmare, Mrs. Martin slowly pulled herself to her feet.

"What!" she whispered. Kayton coolly took some sheets of paper from the top drawer of his desk and held them out for her scrutiny.

"These are the finger prints you left on the table that night," he said coolly. "They coincide with the ones you left here on my blotter." She dropped heavily back into the chair with an inarticulate moan.

"This," added Kayton slowly, with a stern gaze, "this is jury proof of complicity."

The woman looked at him dully, stolidly, for all the suddenness of his attack.

To be continued.

QUIZZERS MAKE SMALL HEADWAY

That "Insidious" Lobby Seems to Be Well Hid.

SOLONS KNOW NOTHING OF IT

The Inquisitors Have Got Well Down the List in Their Alphabetical Search For Information to Substantiate the President's Charges Without Unearthing Anything Save Vague Hints From Kenyon and La Follette.

Washington, June 4.—Before they found a member of the upper house of congress who was willing to venture the belief that there is a "lobby" in existence against the tariff bill, the senate investigators worked down the alphabet all the way to K. The "find" was Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who expressed the conviction that "President Wilson was indeed right in the charges he has made that a powerful lobby was at work in Washington to hinder or prevent the passage of the Democratic tariff bill."

Senator Kenyon could not give names or details, but nevertheless his conviction was firmly fixed that influence such as the president described had been at work.

Senator Kenyon did not believe that money was being used outright. That method is a thing of the past and is too crude. The modern lobbyist, as the senator from Iowa sees him, wins his way through flattery and holding out promises of social advancement, through giving elaborate social entertainments, dinners, banquets, theater parties, motor rides and yachting excursions.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin also ventured the opinion that there are lobbies still in existence in Washington. He could not give names and was free to acknowledge that their influence had for a long time been on the wane and that conditions today are much better than they had been twenty-five years ago.

When the senate investigators called the day's work done at 10 o'clock last night they had examined all told thirty-three of their colleagues. Of this number, however, one-third or more of the entire senate, only two members, Kenyon and La Follette, have come forward with statements that can be construed as favorable to President Wilson's charge of a "numerous, industrious and insidious lobby." And both these are Republicans.

Many Democrats, including Senator Hughes of Mr. Wilson's own state, told the investigators that they had no knowledge of any illegitimate lobbying going on. Senator Hughes, however, was inclined to believe that the men who were seeking to bring about a change in the tariff bill were here in greater numbers and were more persistent than in 1909, when the Payne-Aldrich law was under consideration. Senator Penrose, on the other hand, declared the army that has invaded Washington to combat the Underwood bill is only about 40 per cent the size of the one that advanced upon congress when the Payne law was under consideration. The senator from Pennsylvania gave it as his opinion also that the practice of lobbying has become decadent.

It has become apparent that the problem which the Democratic members of the investigating committee have before them is to produce sufficient evidence to justify the president's recent statement. This seems to be their chief concern now, while the Republicans are seizing upon every opportunity to emphasize the conviction that the president made his statement without sufficient grounds.

Subpoenas have been issued under the direction of the senate committee for more than fifty witnesses, most of whom are expected to testify as to the operations of the sugar lobby. It is supposed that the president supplied most of these names. The subpoenas were issued for men identified with the propaganda that has been going on for a duty on sugar as well as for the free sugar advocates.

Among those who were subpoenaed as witnesses are Henry G. Oxnard, who is prominently identified with the beet sugar industry; Frank C. Lowry, who is secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' association and who has been advocating free sugar; Truman G. Palmer, and practically everybody who has been actively connected with the organization known as the Domestic Sugar Producers' association. It is expected that the examination of senators will be concluded Friday or Saturday, and immediately thereafter the committee will begin calling these witnesses and others for whom subpoenas will be issued later.

MOVE IN INTEREST OF THE CONSUMER

President Wilson Has His Way With Committee.

Washington, June 4.—The subcommittee on finance of the senate, on "second thought" has decided that flour and meats shall remain on the free list as in the Underwood bill. At the same time the "raw materials" that enter into their production—wheat and oats and cattle, sheep and hogs—will enter the United States market free. Under the Underwood bill, as it stands now, cattle, sheep and hogs are taxed 10 per cent and wheat and oats 10 cents a bushel.

Thus the demand of the northwestern millers that the duties on grains and the duty on flour be "equalized" has been now met by making both free. In like manner there has been an equalization as regards livestock and meats by putting them both on the free list.

This is the most important move in the interest of the consumer that has been made since the Underwood bill left the house, and the credit for it belongs chiefly to President Wilson. He has stood for the free listing of grains and of cattle and other meat-producing animals in the face of great opposition from the farmers of the country. It was this feature of the Canadian reciprocity bill that brought a flood of protests in upon President Taft, and it is predicted that Mr. Wilson will be now subjected to the same kind of pressure.

Steps have been taken by Great Britain for a coaling station in the Hawaiian Islands at which vessels may be supplied coming and going to the Panama canal.

DO IT NOW

Rushville People Should Not Wait Until it is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into so emersious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act while others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home.

M. Conner, 1001 N. Harrison St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results and am glad to recommend them. I had backache and pains through my loins and my kidneys were irregular in action. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them. They stopped the pains and regulated the kidney action."

THE BENEFITS OF NEW LAW

Being Pointed Out at State Conference.

FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Object of Present Meeting Being Held at Indianapolis is to Promote Interest in the Methods of Tapping the Sources of Expert Knowledge of Farm Life and Disseminating This Information Among the People.

Indianapolis, June 4.—Representatives of twenty Indiana agricultural, horticultural, labor, commercial and financial organizations, and of Purdue and Indiana universities, nearly a thousand people are present at the first conference on agriculture and country life held in this state.

The conference is being held under the auspices of the Indiana bankers. The indications are that the conference will be made a permanent affair.

The meeting promises to prove a great boost for vocational education, a reorganization of educational work, at least so far as the country is concerned, as is permitted and provided for in the new Indiana vocational education and county agent laws enacted this year.

The proposition is simple, as was brought out by all the speakers. The nation, the state and the county, and especially the farm taxpayers, have been paying the bills for the creation of a vast amount of knowledge and development of science at Purdue and other agricultural colleges and experiment stations, and in the national department of agriculture. The plan is to tap these great accumulations and get this knowledge and science out into the land.

Prof. G. I. Christie of Purdue university, who called the conference together, said: "The necessity of such a course was forced by the rapidly increasing value of land, the high cost of living in towns and cities, the movement of the young away from the land, soil robbing and waste that results in reduced crops, the discovery of new ideals in education, and the popularizing of the facts which mean better and larger crops and more economical use of them."

DEED OF AN INSANE MAN

Fatally Wounded Wife and Then Cut His Own Throat.

Corydon, Ind., June 4.—At his home southwest of Corydon William Daily attempted to kill his wife and then took his own life by cutting his throat from ear to ear with a razor.

Mrs. Daily, whose skull was fractured with a hatchet, is still alive, but her recovery is doubtful. She has not yet been able to give any of the details of the tragedy. The five small children of Mr. and Mrs. Daily were the only witnesses to the occurrence.

With the father dead and the mother lying helpless from her injuries, one of the children ran to the home of a neighbor and told them what had happened. When the neighbors arrived Mrs. Daily was lying on the steps of the home and her husband was lying dead in the yard with the hatchet and the razor lying near him.

Daily has been regarded as insane for some time, and a few months ago an unsuccessful attempt was made to have him committed to an asylum.

EARLY RELEASE ORDERED

Gall, Prinzler and Emmerich Soon Will Have Their Freedom.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 4.—Three well-known Indianapolis men confined in the United States penitentiary here will be free again within a few days. Word received from the department of justice says that favorable action has been taken on the applications of Paul C. Gall, Harry Prinzler and Max R. Emmerich of Indianapolis, who are serving sentences for obtaining $40,000 illegally from the Capitol National bank of Indianapolis, where Emmerich formerly was employed.

The certificates ordering the release of the men were mailed at Washington yesterday and when they are received at the prison the men will be liberated, after three years of imprisonment.

A New Job For Hendren.

Indianapolis, June 4.—Governor Ralston has attached his signature to commissions which make Gilbert H. Hendren, Democrat, the chief examiner of the state board of accounts, and Bert Winters, Republican, a deputy examiner. Their terms will begin next Saturday. Mr. Hendren becomes the successor of William A. Dehority, Democrat, and Mr. Winters succeeds John A. Boltz, Republican. Mr. Hendren is the building and loan clerk in the office of the auditor of state. His present salary is $2,500, but beginning with next Saturday it will be boosted to $4,000 a year.

Had No Money For It.

Indianapolis, June 4.—Plans for contesting the nomination of Joseph E. Bell for mayor at the recent primaries have been abandoned. One of the chief reasons for the failure to bring the suit was a lack of funds on the part of those who proposed to prosecute it.

ANDREW ADAMS

Appellate Court Chief Justice Resigns to Take a Better Job.

Indianapolis, June 4.—Chief Justice Andrew A. Adams of the appellate court of Indiana has handed Governor Ralston his resignation to take effect Sept. 1. The resignation was accepted by the governor and Fred S. Caldwell of Winchester is the man who will succeed Judge Adams on the state bench. Judge M. B. Laird of Logansport will succeed Judge Adams as chief justice of the court. The resignation of Judge Adams follows his acceptance of an offer to become general counsel for the Arbuckle brothers in New York at a salary far in advance of that paid the judges of the Indiana courts.

STEEL TRUST HEAD FINISHES TESTIMONY

Judge Gary Further Defends Big Corporation.

New York, June 4.—At the hearing of the federal suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the big concern, has completed his direct testimony. He explained the object of the so-called "Gary dinners," and denied his corporation ever fixed the price of rails in a manner that influenced other rail manufacturers.

Taking up the point of publicity, Gary told of the efforts that the corporation has made to publish its affairs. He explained the publication of various monthly, quarterly and annual statements and of the readiness at all times to keep the government officials informed.

"Concerning the attitude of the corporation to the federal government," explained Gary at that point, "I have always endeavored to keep it fully advised concerning all our affairs. I explained that if at any time the government was not satisfied with our conduct, we wished to make an explanation and then if we could not convince the officials that we were right, were always ready to change our methods."

Merrymaking Turned to Grief.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 4.—Ed Marlett, twenty-eight years old, of this city, met death by drowning in St. Marys river while trying to rescue a friend, Jack Dunn, twelve years old, of Huntington. The latter also was drowned. The accident turned to sobs the laughs of a merry picnic party which was making young Dunn's visit in the city an enjoyable one.

Japan Explaining Her Views.

Tokio, June 4.—It is said that the government has sent another note to Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador at Washington, explaining the views of Japan on the California land legislation.
